UNION ENVELOPES.

This collection of Union envelopes, comprising 7,352 pieces, is the most extensive that I have ever seen, and I know not if any other equally large exists. Great pains have been taken to remove all duplicates, but the number is so great that it is not unlikely a few have escaped notice, but probably less than 100 duplicates can be found in the entire lot.

Any difference whatever in design, motto, or inscription, size or quality, is held to constitute a variety, but no distinction is made on account of an accidental difference in color. They are all unused, and, with scarcely an exception, in very fine condition. They were collected during the war, and from that time to this, till within a few days, have not been handled.

Few remarks are made concerning their rarity; suffice it to say, I believe it would be nearly impossible to duplicate any single lot in the Catalogue. No attempt at description is made; they are simply classified and thrown into lots, having some simple characteristic.

Should a satisfactory bid be made for the entire collection or any considerable part of it, it will be sold entire or in large lots; otherwise in single lots—all bids to be made so much for each piece.
